

COUPLE MARRIED IN HOME OF MR. AND MRS. F. J. SHEPARD

Miss Marjorie B. Shepard, Their Niece, Bride of Mr. Philip M. Morgan.

Mrs. Philip M. Morgan.

At 575 Fifth avenue, the city residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Shepard, yesterday afternoon Miss Marjorie Burr Shepard, niece of Mr. Shepard, was married to Mr. Philip Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Morgan of Worcester, Mass. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Shepard.

It was one of the few weddings that have taken place in the brownstone mansion on the northeast corner of Forty-seventh street and Fifth avenue, which Mrs. Shepard inherited from her father, the late Jay Gould. The wedding and reception formed one of the gifts of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Shepard to their niece. The Rev. Harry Fosdick performed the ceremony in a grove of palms, laurels and hydrangeas in the front drawing room.

The bride was preceded into the simulated chapel by the four adopted children of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Shepard—the Misses F. J. and Louis Shepard and the Misses Olivia and Helen Anna Shepard—who, as ribbon bearers, formed an aisle through which the other members of the bridal party walked. A small member of the bridal party was Betty Morgan, sister of the bridegroom, who was flower girl. Miss Madeleine Morgan, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. The best man was the bridegroom's father, and the Messrs. Charles, Vincent and Paul B. Morgan, Jr., brothers of the bridegroom, and Mr. John B. Wright of Worcester, were ushers.

At the organ, one of the largest in any home in New York, Mr. Harry Rowe Shelley played operatic and wedding music, including at the request of the bride, "O Promise Me," from the late Richard de Koven's "Robin Hood." The echo organ, placed in the upper part of the staircase wall, was heard faintly during the ceremony.

Mr. Morgan and his bride will start tomorrow on board the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria to spend two months in England and France. After July 1 they will be at Hill Top, their home in Huddersfield, Mass.

Among guests from Worcester in addition to the parents of the bridegroom were Mr. and Mrs. Horton H. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. George Endicott, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Nye, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wood. There also were present several alumni of Wellesley College, from which the bride was graduated last year. Other guests were

$5 Tickets Will Kill the Theatre, Says W. A. Brady

Back From Europe, He Opposes Proposed Scale—Has New Plays.

On his return yesterday from England and the Continent on board the Mauretania William A. Brady denounced the proposed swing of several leading theatrical managers toward a $5 scale for tickets. The producer, who controls theatres here and in other American cities, took the attitude that charging such a price would ruin the stage. He said:

"I am not in favor of increasing the price of tickets in my theatres. Instead of the rates being jacked up higher they should be reduced right away."

"It seems doubtful whether the producers could get $5 a seat from the public. The figures charged now already are prohibitive, and the result is that patrons are being driven away. If the producers want to ruin the theatrical business in a hurry let them charge $5 a seat."

Mr. Brady described conditions abroad as chaotic, and said this had been helped by the vacillating course of the United States, which had engaged in England and the rest of Europe a feeling toward the United States which was anything but good.

"France is likely to go to pieces at any moment," he continued, "and the industrial upheaval with results that no man likes to contemplate. Great Britain is not much better off, and if France goes to pieces Great Britain will follow. There is only one remedy. We must get together with England. They have liked us and they want to continue to like us. Continued peace between Great Britain and the United States is the most important thing in the world."

Mr. Brady said three young American women had become the sensation of the theatrical season in London. They are Miss Edith Day in "Trenk," Miss Peggy O'Neill in "Paddy," and Miss Mary Nash in "The Man Who Came Back." Outside of these productions, Mr. Brady said, most of the plays in the British metropolises were not worth sitting through, the outstanding exception being Miss Alice Delysia in "Afar."

He said he had put Miss Delysia under contract to appear in two motion pictures while playing in "Afar" in this city in November.

Mr. Brady also arranged with Charles E. Cochran for the American production of a comedy, "The Dancing Wife," now in Paris, and with Graham Moffatt, author of "Paddy," to bring the play to New York.

Mr. Moffatt and his company coming here after their run in London.

In England the great opportunity for producing a motion picture, Mr. Brady said, it was realized that the British have fallen behind the remainder of the world, but they are determined to catch up and "have their own Plickers," he said, "and they are determined to make a national movement."

On this ingenious foundation a diverting comedy was built. Mr. Brady gave an amusing impersonation of O'Brien, and Edgar Stott in the role of the vampire, and C. A. Clarke as Able Kipper, a movie functionary, fully lived up to the high standards of New York. In the husky and lusty lugged chorus were Thomas S. Lamont, son of Thomas W. Lamont, banker; Frederick Church, Harvard football star, and Frederick Lawrence, of the Harvard Athletic Club.

The production was received with keen appreciation by the audience, which had several theatrical personages, including Miss Helen Shipman, Marjorie Wood and Martha Low, who attended out of friendship for Miss Alexandra Carlisle, English actress, who staged the production.

The patrons were Mrs. Robert Bacon, Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont, Mrs. J. P. Morgan, Mrs. Norman H. Davis, Mrs. Albert Steinkamp, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. George B. Platt, Mrs. Howard W. Ingers, Mrs. Henry W. Munroe and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt.

CONCERT OF HIS OWN MUSIC.

L. E. Johns Introduces Songs and Other Works.

Louis Edgar Johns, a composer and pianist of Pittsburgh, gave a concert of his own compositions yesterday afternoon in the Princess Theatre. He presented groups of songs sung by Miss Mary Schiller, soprano; Miss Elsie Lyon, alto; and Sidney Bider, baritone.

The brush was a painting of an Indian weaving, and sold to E. A. Milch for $1,500. The lady was a portrait of a young lady of a rather more sober aspect than the artist usually paints. It sold to Otto Berner, agent, for $1,500. Other pictures that sold for $250 or more were as follows:

34—Miss Rebecca Beecher, Beggar at a Cottage Door; to Mr. Bassett, $100.

35—Window Hood, Cock Fight; Mr. Campbell, $100.

36—J. J. Auden, Birds; W. W. Seaman, agent, $100.

37—A. B. White, The Last of the Mohicans; W. W. Seaman, agent, $100.

38—Swamp Engagement Inviting a British Soldier; to Mr. Berner, $100.

39—James Fathingham; Mrs. Philip Carter, $100.

40—Benjamin West, Allegory; W. W. Seaman, agent, $100.

41—Henrietta Johnson, Lady Johnson; W. W. Seaman, agent, $100.

42—Henry Northbridge, Portrait of a Man; W. W. Seaman, agent, $100.

43—James Northbridge, Portrait of a Man; W. W. Seaman, agent, $100.

44—O. Berner, agent, $100.

45—Joseph Badger, Capt. Larrabee; Birch Galleries, $100.

The total for the evening was $12,420. At to-night's session the Gilbert Stuart portraits will be sold.

$1,440 FOR TWELVE BRONZES.

Toletino Art Sale Totals $400,535.

A set of twelve bronze busts from the collection of Prince Barberini were sold yesterday in the Toletino sale at the American Art Association for $1,440.

They are of Roman Emperors, Nero, Nero, Hadrian, Marcus Aurelius and Caracalla. The buyer was the firm of Caldorazzo & Co. They also gave $1,050 for No. 289, a pair of Florentine aqueduct statues; $625 for No. 279, an archaic Greek bronze, and $440 for No. 222, a pair of Tuscan banner holders.

Two Sienese standard holders, No. 240, Berner, agent, paid $450 for No. 227, a French Gothic lockplate; Keller & Co. gave $440 for No. 256, a Limoges enamel; George Gray Barnard paid $525 for No. 262, a French reliquary; W. W. Seaman, agent, gave $550 for No. 267, a pair of Tuscan candlesticks; G. Sestieri paid $1,200 for No. 291; a pair of bronze statues, and $1,211 for No. 292, a bronze statuette by Sansovino.

The total for the afternoon was $25,667.50, making the grand total to date $400,535.

LABOR GOES INTO PICTURES.

Aims to Show Public Workers Side of Struggle.

American Federation of Labor unions yesterday announced that members of the thousand are supporting movie enterprises to be run exclusively by organized labor. The centre of activity at present is Seattle and unions of many follow the lead of Seattle. It is said the aim is to show the public the workers' side of the industrial struggle.

Play to Aid French Orphans.

In the Plaza Hotel to-morrow night the Cercle Franco-American will present a play "En Voyage d'Agreement" for the benefit of the fatherless children of France. After the play there will be dancing. This will be the sixth entertainment given by the organization for French, Belgian and American children since the war began. Mr. P. R. de Bracke of 250 West Fifty-fourth street, president of the cercle, is in charge of the sale of tickets.

"Aida" With Muzio in Flower Battle

Miss Farrar Throws Bouquet to Associate on the Stage and Compliments Begin.

The final performance of "Aida" at the Metropolitan last night aroused an enthusiastic demonstration after the third act and brought a pretty exchange of compliments between the Aida of the cast, Miss Claudia Muzio, and Miss Geraldine Farrar, who had a seat in the front row of the orchestra. During the dozen recalls Miss Farrar threw a bunch of flowers across the orchestra pit to the other singer. Miss Muzio bowed profoundly to her associate singer and the rest of the audience. She then threw some flowers across the stage to the latter, who was recognized and the applause continued until she arose and acknowledged it.

"That Verdi's popular work needs no longer the special attractions of a cast of celebrities was demonstrated by the size of the audience. Had Mr. Caruso carried the banner of Egypt the house could not have been more crowded, and many disappointed ones were turned away."

The performance was of the character now usual. There was much vocal art little finesse. It pleased the audience really, if the applause meant anything, since it was the last performance the record may be fully given. The other principals were Mme. Julia Clansen, as Amneris; Mr. Martinelli, as Radames; Mr. Amato, as Amonasro; and Mr. Martindale, as Radames. Miss Florence Rudolph was the solo dancer and Mr. Moranzoni conducted.
